Health Department Accepting Proposals for Air Pollution Prevention Activities

PITTSBURGH – The Allegheny County Health Department (ACHD) is currently accepting proposals from groups to execute air pollution prevention activities to be funded by the Clean Air Fund. Proposals for pollution prevention projects costing between $10,000 and $75,000 will be accepted until 11:30 a.m. on September 12, 2018. The contract length would be two years, with a one-year renewal option.

Previous award recipients retrofitted diesel engines for on and off-road construction equipment, school buses, and railroad equipment. Other projects included the installation of solar panels, a woodstove bounty program, and tree planting programs. All proposals must be submitted electronically. To register to receive a full application package for either proposal, visit: http://bit.ly/ACPublicPurchase.

The Health Department is also currently accepting proposals through August 29, 2018 from groups to support air pollution education activities (http://bit.ly/2OixMxY).

Each year, the Health Department spends more than $1 million on valuable projects to improve air quality, and the Clean Air Fund grows by about the same amount. For more information on these proposals and on the Clean Air Fund, visit: http://bit.ly/CleanAirFund.
